

Number of Automatic Scram for Each Plant

(*: Data up to the end of June 2019)

Automatic Scram

The shutdown of a nuclear reactor, usually by rapid insertion of control rods, either automatically or manually by the reactor operator . It is a safety protection action to decrease in the rate of fission in the reactor and protect the reactor. It is known as a "reactor trip".